Artifacts are the specifications of specific weapons in the Legion that grow in power as you play through expansion. You can customize its appearance as well as what character abilities it improves! This guide provides an overview of the artifacts in the Legion and Wowhead tools. Only the most experienced veterans of Azeroth have the resilience to possess artifacts of legend against the Burning Legion. Your myth-wrought weapon grows in strength, just like you, and your choices will change your abilities and the way it looks, sounds and feels in battle. Fashion your artifact into the perfect battle tool, and guide your faction at the only desperate hour. This guide has been updated for Patch 8.0, and for more information on retirement weapons check out this post. Table Content Artfurl Relics Manufactured PhenomenonEde Artifact AbilityFact LoreFrequently Asked QuestionsThe Specification Receives a Unique Weapon - 36 Weapons in Total (No. 1 Fishing Artifact Available to All). They are designed for the ultimate weapon for you hero. Each artifact is acquired by completing a specification-specific quest that emphasizes the unique abilities of your class and shows more about important pieces of knowledge. Your Artifact weapon is your primary weapon in the Legion, there is no other weapon that will match its strength. Artifacts have different styles and color shades that are unlocked through different activities. You'll be able to rewind your artifact to a different look, but also transmog other weapons to look like your artifact in the Battle of Azeroth. There are 36 total weapons artifacts in the Legion - one for each specification in the game. Here's a quick look at each weapon in the artifact. An ancient legion of axes forged from metal that depletes the vital energies of its victims. The soul of its original creator is trapped inside and cursed by endless hunger. For over a thousand years, the old and cunning mo'arg has used the axe to butcher the rebellion and consume the vitality of the Legion's enemies. In its long and infamous history, the weapon has made its demonic carrier extraordinarily powerful. Instead of a number of different weapons, each of these specifications has different shaped/titled models that match different unlocked performances. This mystical artifact was created thousands of years ago from the chasing of Eluna and the fang from the wolf of the demigod Goldrinn. Eluna's spit has a long and disturbing history for the Druids: those who are not careful enough can be easily overwhelmed by the spirit of Goldrinn that fills the spit. Tied to the origin of the vorgen on Azeroth, the spit is said to have an unsepeakable lunar power for druids with a balance sufficient to keep in check. For example, one of the whispers for the spell of Aluneth OOM Whispers (Voice) (called when low on mana) is that's all you have? Note that there are a number of different whispers that can occur with each condition, not just one. Interesting aside is that Skull Man'ari (Demonology Sorcerer's Artifact) and Xal'atath, Blade of the Black Empire (The Shadow Priest Artifact) have a similar slate and will talk to its users. Other examples of aluneth phrases include: You're pretty tactician, aren't you? - caused by the use of certain abilities, including Spellsteal, Ice Block and Frost Nova. (Meet Dargrul) in Black Rook Hold: Xal'atath whispers: So much rage in this soul! It's going to be a good harvest. (Meeting with Illisane Ravencrest) Xal'atath whispers: Another tortured soul, long overdue for oblivion. I'm more interested in his advisor though... (Meeting with Lord Kurtalos Ravencrest and Latosius) Meeting with Nistendra (Emerald Nightmare): Ksal'atath whispers: the defaced corpse of a dragon... How dangerous can it be? Meeting with Archdruid Glaidalis (Darkheart Thicket): Xal'atath whispers: Another midwared servant of many who dare be betrayed. Meeting with Tiratton Salteri (Guardian Sanctuary): Ksal'atath whispers: Another fool who believed in Illidan's lies about sacrifice and righteousness. Exhausted, it includes everyone. In Highmountain: Xal'atath whispers: the lair of the fallen Aspect beside. He was the strongest of them, and yet the easiest for us to corrupt. Xal'atath whispers: the tauren here are surprisingly resistant to corruption, given their origins. In Val'sharah: Xal'atath whispers: To see the nightmare Yogg-Saron in full color fills me with jealousy ... and some pride. Xal'atath whispers: Here you will see why the invasion of the Legion is ultimately useless. Everyone can be spoiled, dreams and demons alike. In Azsuna: Xal'atath whispers: Dragons are weak here. You would be good to use this fact. Xal'atath whispers: Legion burrows deep here. If they burrow deeper, they can't like what they find. Xal'atath whispers: Disaster awaits here. The ruins of the elves, filled with irrefutable souls, are ripe for harvest. In Stormheim: Xal'atath whispers: Don't impress the tall titans that stand here. The towers of sacrifice in Nialotha dwarf these pathetic temples. In Suramar: Xal'atath whispers: This city of elves pales in comparison to the sleeping city... (Near Suramar) Xal'atath whispers: Suramar, hi noble citizens greedily their world is very very very in the Temple of Netherlight (Priest Order Hall): Xal'atath whispers: The walls between the kingdoms are thin here, so easy to break open. Do you know what would happen if the true shadow and light met here? Xal'atath whispers: I know naaru consider us horrors to resist. We do not share this view. They are just beloved brothers who have lost the true way. They will return to their masters... in time. Xal'atath whispers: Do they talk about eternal conflict? That the whole history of your world is only a small part of the time that has passed? Xal'atath whispers: The study of the Void here is commendable, but ultimately useless. How could you understand what the Titans didn't? (In the Sanctuary of the Void) Another: Xal'atath whispers: God Deep writes in his prison, break free all so slowly. You have to hurry up and defeat the fallen titan... There are more battles yet to be fought. Xal'atath whispers: Fallen elves cover behind their wall. She grows in power as she draws souls from her victims. Harvester got its name as Satiel methodically drained all his life from the unfortunate inhabitants of Deadwind Pass, creating a powerful magical connection there in the process. Tracking Satiel, the Keeper of Trisifala turned the scythe on her, sending her soul to join those of her victims. Eventually the Dark Riders recovered the weapon and classified it under the Karazhan Tower.Artifact CalculatorWeapon: Uthalesh, Deadwind Harvester (Staff)Relic SlotsShadow X 2Blood X 1Actiact Ability: Reap SoulsArtifact Acquisition questline: YoutubeHidden Abilities and Flavored Souls periodically try to escape Deadwind Harvester, Killing them returns 10% mana.3D Model: Before eredar served titan Sargeras, one of their greatest leaders, Tal'kiel, had unprecedented skill in calling and binding magic. These elites usually require 3-5 people to kill. Skulls will be given as a bonus to loot while performing the appropriate Rare Elite World quest (i.e. you only get them when you complete the World quest, they don't fall out of the crowd themselves). Skulls can't be obtained from small rare crowd World quests. Once you've got 13 skulls that can take a few days, you use them at the executioner's altar in Deadwind Pass to cause Satael. When asked about them on the Legion of Thecrafting Thread, Blizzard remained mysterious on the subject, so it's up to the players to discover them!1. Are these effects designed to be hidden, or are there simply no identifier spells, artifact features, etc? 2. If not, what really allows them? Are they basic, tied to a equipped artifact, different in specs, and so on?1) First. When dealing with powerful things like some artifacts that players will acquire in the Legion, sometimes mysterious things happen. Contrary to the spirit of the thread, I know. But there you have it.2) See question 1. There is a plan of some hidden effects of Artifact Weapons (when known) on each weapon summary (according to Artifacts by Spec above). They are hidden with spoiler tags - in case you want to try to discover them for yourself! Please note that some effects have been datamined and listed in this guide, but may not have been implemented in the game. Some of the effects that have been discovered are simply cosmetic (Minding tides), while others have a significant taste and can be quite beneficial, especially when in the open world / solo (Gaze from Val'kyr, Call to the Eagles). Also, some of the weapons are reasonable (Aluneth, Xa'atath, Blade of the Black Empire, Skull Man'ari), and will talk to you at different times as you adventure. Each hall of the Order of class and related quests cover a different part of the Legion's history. You may be surprised by the origin of some weapons artifacts! Here's a rough breakdown of what types of weapons are related to what type of knowledge, as well as the guides we have that explain wo's story in more detail. Old Gods: Ksa'ata, Blade of the Black Empire, Strom'kar, WarbreakerNaaru: Tuure, Lighthouse of the Gods NaaruWild: Claws Ursoac, Talonclaw, Fu zon, Companion of the Wanderer, Kos Eluna, Fangs Ashmanae, G'Hanir, Mother TreeElemental Lords: Fists of Heaven, DoomTithammers: of ValarjarDragon Aspect: Scale of Earth-WarderBurning Legion: Mo damned, Blade of the Fallen Prince, Apocalypse, Twinblades Cheater, Aldrachi Warblades, Fangs Eater, Ulthalesh, Deadwinder, Skull Man'ari, Scepter SargerasCrafted or Owned by Noble Figure: Ashbringer Aluneth, Felo'melorn, Ebonkhill, Thas'dorah, Legacy Windrunners, Wrath of Light, Sheilun, Staff Mist, Kingslayers, Dreadblades, Sharas'dal, Scepter What's interesting, however, is that two pieces of weapons (such as fist arms and shield) occupy only one bag of slot, saving some space (especially with artifacts for multiple specifications). You can transmog other appearances on your artifact weapons, and you will also be able to transmog your Artifact Weapons appearance on other weapons in the Battle of Azeroth. Also note that you can transmog two pieces of artifacts (fist weapons and shield, off-hand and dagger, etc.) separately. Your Class Order Hall quartermaster sells a point level of 740 weapons/outside hands/shields for 100g each. They can serve as a replacement if you need them before you unlock all your Artifact weapons classes at level 102. Once you complete the Artifact questline and get that weapon, you can't destroy it or supplier it. This way you'll have a busy slot bag for the extra Artifact weapons you get. The default user interface has no way of seeing how much someone has developed their Artifact (e.g. the number of features, etc.) other than the level of their weapon. That being said, third-party sites like WoW Progress can track the number of unlocked features and Artifact Power. The plan is to allow these models to be used after the Legion (in the next expansion). It's still something they're working on and there will be more information. This includes new variations of the shape of the druid cat and the shape of the bear. (Source: Legion Developer - A. Video Text Summary) The current plan is to allow all artifacts of the performances to be unlocked after the Legion (except for the challenging Watch Mag Tower Challenge Appearance, both of which will be unavailable after the Legion). This includes the war-torn (Prestige) appearance and all the shades that will get after the Legion, although the way in which they are earned may change. In addition, the different shades for the sophisticated Look Mage Tower Challenge Appearance will be unlocked after the Legion, as long as you unlocked the look of the base before the Legion is over. (Source: Legion Patch 7.3 - A with Ion Hazzikostas, Video, Text Summary; Blue Post, October 11, 2017) They're done with that. The last set was made at 7.2, and it's time to take your food artifact to the Legion in 7.3. (Source: Legion Patch 7.3 - A with Ion Hazzikostas, Video, Text Summary) Artifacts and Artifact Effects will be included in all PvP situations, including instances and PvP rated. Legionfall proc is active in PvP, but reduced by 50%. In addition, only the tier 1 Netherlight Crucible effect - increasing the item level - will be active in the PvP. Tier 2 and Tier 3 features will not be active. Legion PvP Preview (Source) In the Legion, once you zone in a PvP instance, the stats on your equipment will be voided and you will be given a predetermined set of statistics that is uniquely configured for your specialty. In addition, any set of bonuses, enchants, legendary bonuses, or bauble effects will be disabled (although your artifact and associated Artifact Powers will remain active). The method of obtaining your hidden kind of Artifact Weapon varies dramatically from weapon to weapon. This can include being sold by a vendor, dropped by the boss, rewarded from the questline, plundered from the chest, and more! There are some hidden appearances for which the acquisition is still unknown. The Artifact Appearances section above describes many of the methods of getting hidden skin - just scroll to the bottom of the look chart for this specification. You need to have your hidden skin active and selected on your Artifact Forge to earn credit for alternative shades. That being said, you can transmog over hidden skin and still earn credit for shades! Thanks to Perculia for her help - this guide was based on the original she worked hard to do! To be done! ret paladin hidden artifact weapon guide. paladin artifact weapon quest guide
